

Winding Her Up

She sometimes feels as regimented as the clocks she collects! Marielle Todd has a good life, but theres definitely something missing. Shes a regular at the Sunday meetings of the Steampunk Society, enjoying the lectures and the teas. So when she decides to break her habit and attend a Saturday evening function, the dance party she finds comes as quite a surprise. But a delightful one. Adding to the charm is the presence of two very attractive men Ian Mathews and Tad Fisher own an up-market antiques store on Newbury Street. Friends since kindergarten, theyve worked hard to get where they are. Neither is dating at the moment, and a casual conversation helps them realize theyre past the horny-and-desperate-guy stage of sex. They want something more. Something different. When they arrive at the Steampunk Societys Saturday night social, they realize something else. They want Marielle. They want to share her, spend the night pleasuring her and themselves as well, taking a journey for three down a road to wild sensations and steaming hot passion. So the only question that remains is can they wind her up enough to consider the idea? And if they do, will her clockwork facade shatter to reveal the sensual woman beneath? Two men Marielle is shocked, intrigued and aroused. Its something she could only fantasize about, and now its about to happen. A wonderful afternoon of fun at an Italian festival seals the deal, and Marielles fate. Together, these three turn their naked backs on convention to focus on ecstasy. Its a night of wild fulfillment. But what will happen when its time to face reality once more?
