Many men over the age of fifty can experience swelling in the area of the prostate gland. Men with prostate conditions should have regular medical examinations to make sure that deeper problems, such as serious infection or prostate cancer, are not involved. Prostate problems can be serious if not treated. However, natural remedies can keep the prostate gland in healthy shape. Men who lead a western lifestyle have a much higher incidence of prostate problems (BPH) than men who lead a traditional or rural lifestyle. In China, men in rural areas have very low rates of BPH, while those living in cities adopting a western lifestyle have a skyrocketing incidence of this condition. Albeit, it is still below rates seen in the West. BPH is a lifestyle based condition. As an encouragement to all men recently diagnosed with prostate problems, this authors fully comprehensive and regular health tests confirm his regime of lifestyle factors resulted in the body reversing a mildly enlarged prostate within four months of it being diagnosed, losing all the typical male symptoms in the process. Ultrasound scans confirm the physical reduction went back to normal. An enlarged prostate can often be prevented from getting worse, but to reverse the enlargement is rare. Lifestyle changes detailed in this Guerrilla Guide, did the trick. At the beginning of the 21st century one in eight women in the UK is expected to get breast cancer and one in four men prostate cancer. For the most part cancer is a 20th century invention. Most types of cancer are on the increase, and conventional treatment is losing the war. The death toll increases despite huge sums of money poured into research. Indeed, many would argue that we need a new way of thinking, and that the direction of cancer research must change from trying to find a cure for cancer, to researching lifestyles and methods to prevent cancer. As proven by two-time Nobel Prizewinner Dr. Otto Warburg, many diseases named by allopathic medicine are but symptoms of one underlying cause: hypoxia. Hypoxia is oxygen starvation at cellular level. This is the cause of degenerative diseases such as cancer, rheumatoid arthritis, atherosclerosis, multiple sclerosis, etc.. Further, when we lack sufficient oxygen in the blood the heart beats faster and an increase in blood pressure occurs, elevating the risk of stroke and heart attack. A negative cycle emanating from one cause: lack of oxygen at cellular level. Lack of oxygen at cellular level cannot be put right by drugs - they usually treat the symptom not the cause of any disease or ailment - but can be utilizing holistic lifestyle factors. These can help prevent and/or cure cancer and most other adverse health conditions. As we get older, our body's ability to provide us with oxygen at cellular level reduces. Processed supermarket foods and junk food are effectively dead food due to lack of enzymes, the inclusion of very bad hydrogenated fats (trans-fat), artificial additives, chlorination of water supplies, antibiotics etc., all of which compromise our nutritional oxygen intake. Utilizing Ayurvedic and traditional Chinese Medicine principles, prevention is better than cure by way of a strong immune system. However, if you have already started to suffer from any of the immune-compromised diseases, it is never too late to commence a more holistic approach to health and longevity by improving your intake of oxygen, and particularly at cellular level. Do you have your own medical back-up plan? If not, this book and the others in the Guerrilla G
