

The Survivorship Net: A Parable for the Family, Friends, and Caregivers of People with Cancer

Winner: 2011 National Health Information Award, Merit Winner, Health Promotion/Disease Prevention; 2011 Association Media and Publishing EXCEL Award; 2011 Moms Choice Award, Gold, Childrens Picture Book; Finalist: 2010 National Indie Excellence Award Colorful and whimsical, this tale aims to put fears to rest and emphasize the important role of family, friends, and caregivers in the life of every cancer patient. On one level, it is a childrens story that allays anxiety and explains how kids can help their parents through treatment and recovery. On another level, it is a parable for all that uses the metaphor of a circus to illustrate how friends, family, and caregivers through their actions, deeds, and support can add threads to the patients and families safety nets as they participate in the high-wire act that is cancer.
